HOUSE DEBATES FOREIGN RELIEF AND RUSS CURB

Get $350,000,000 Bill Shortly After Senate Passes Greek-Turkish Aid.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—Under attack as a "blank check," the administration's $350,000,000 foreign relief bill hit the house floor today less than 24 hours after the senate sealed its approval on an historic $400,000,000 program to help Greece and Turkey curb Communism.

Debate on the relief bill first and the sharply-pared interior department appropriation next probably will delay house action on the Greek-Turkish aid program until some time next week.

The senate passed the measure late yesterday 67 to 23 after weeks of debate in which opponents assailed it as a step toward war with Russia and its supporters claimed it will help preserve peace.

Same Issues Seen

Although the house sidetracked the question temporarily to concentrate on foreign relief, there was abundant evidence the same issues may determine the legislators' final decision on what the United States will do in the way of sending food abroad.

A final flare-up marked the last hours of the senate's torrid debate on the Greek-Turkish issue of American aid to "free peoples." It was touched off by Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo), author of several unsuccessful amendments to modify the bill, with the charge that congress is underwriting a "military alliance" with Turkey that invites Russian retaliation.

Obviously irked, Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the senate foreign relations committee recalled that Johnson also had contended "repeatedly" that the program can lead only to war with the Soviet Union.

"Invitation to Disaster"

Terming that statement "an invitation to the precise disaster that this bill seeks to prevent," Vandenberg continued:

"That is an inflammable statement and it is a grave error. I deny there is any such purpose in the heart of any senator who today supports the President of the United States."

As outlined by President Truman in a dramatic personal appearance before the lawmakers March 12 to outline a momentous new American foreign policy, the measure permits a $400,000,000 expenditure before July 1, 1948, in gifts, loans or other advances to Greece and Turkey.

Mr. Truman told congress, without referring to Russia, that the aid program is needed to help the two countries maintain their "national integrity."

HOW OHIOANS VOTED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) voted yesterday against the Greek-Turkish aid bill. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) voted in favor of the bill.

CONDITION FAVORABLE

The condition of Allen Blankenship, 68, Marion Power Shovel Co. watchman hit over the head with a heavy iron bolt by a prowler on the company grounds early Sunday morning, was given as "good" today by attaches at White Cross hospital in Columbus, The Associated Press reported. No further information as to the identity of his assailant has been turned up, police and company officials said today.

COMPLICATIONS. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hoffman, holding their 15-month-old triplets, have problems in the offing. They are being evicted—and Mrs. Hoffman is expecting twins! Here they are at Los Angeles, Calif. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

30 Per Cent Price Slash Tried By Grocery in Deflation Drive

By The Associated Press

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., April 23—A New England grocery chain today slashed prices 30 per cent and a half-dozen other communities prepared to join with this city in "roll back" prices.

The Clover Farm chain—128 independently owned stores in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire—announced effective immediately the price cut on 150 items.

Buyers' response to a general 10 per cent price cut in Newburyport, where the movement originated yesterday, sent observers from other cities away enthusiastic about taking similar steps to combat inflation.

Devaluation Day Experiment

Merchants in Leominster — a central Massachusetts city of 23,000 announced tomorrow they would inaugurate a three-day experiment known as "devaluation days" with a general 10 per cent cut in prices.

Newburyport stores reported their sales were up from 10 to 46 per cent over normal Tuesday's business, with automobile accessories showing the biggest gain.

Department store sales were up 20 to 25 per cent; food 15 to 20 per cent; clothing 25 to 30 per cent; jewelry and hardware 10 to 15 per cent.

Merchants of the neighboring town of Amesbury voted unanimously last night to adopt the "Newburyport Plan" after observers reported that the first day of the experiment appeared "highly successful."

Portsmouth, N. H., businessmen, who also sent a delegation to Newburyport yesterday—the first day of the experiment—took steps to obtain price cut pledges which would put the program in operation in that ship-building city.

Observers Impressed

Observers from other communities, including the heavily-populated industrial city of Lowell, said they were impressed with the plan and would make favorable reports to their merchants.

Under the local program, more than 90 per cent of the retail merchants agreed to slash prices 10 per cent in a 10-day experiment and were pledged not to buy supplies from wholesalers who would not grant similar reductions.

Biggest—and much better than average—demand on the first day was for men's furnishings and automobile supplies, merchants reported. They said that the full effects of the experiment would not be known, however, "until the weekend" as Tuesday is a normally quiet day.

LITTLE EFFECT HERE FROM TIME CHANGE

Radio Virtually Only Activity Hit by Daylight Saving.

Although many sections of the country will move their clocks back one hour next Sunday when daylight saving time becomes effective, Marion and most other Ohio communities will continue on eastern standard time.

Virtually the only effect the time change will have here is on the schedule of radio programs. All programs over WMRN will be heard at the same time, however. The American Broadcasting System, with which WMRN is affiliated, has arranged to record and rebroadcast all its programs an hour after the actual broadcast. The other networks will not do this, though, and their programs will be heard an hour earlier here.

Railroads will remain on regular standard times.

The pattern of areas that will go on daylight saving time April 27 will in places resemble a patchwork quilt, many communities having exercised their option to LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 23—Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, said today that a suitcase full of documents had disappeared while the security council's Balkans investigation commission was enroute from Greece to Geneva.

Lie said there was still no evidence that the documents had been stolen and that the commission is trying to trace the suitcase.

Columbus Bakery Strike Arbitration Turned Down

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—Indefinite continuation of a three-day-old strike of 131 AFL bakery truck drivers appeared in prospect today as four wholesale bakeries rejected their proposals for arbitration.

"We have nothing to arbitrate," declared G. H. Heckler, local manager of the Continental Baking Company, who has been acting as spokesman for the bakeries.

"Any company would be a darn fool to go to arbitration under the circumstances. We owe them nothing and anything decided by arbitration would be a gain for them."

The drivers, who also work as salesmen, are asking a two per cent increase in commissions on goods sold; company loading of trucks and commissions on goods sold at special events such as the state fair. They now earn, company spokesmen said, from $90 to $150 a week.

CINCINNATI BUTTER DOWN

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 23—The wholesale price of butter dropped another two cents to 62 cents a pound in Cincinnati today. It was the second two cent reduction this week. The price drop today was passed on to the consumers by many retail outlets, salt butter selling for 68 cents a pound.

AGREEMENT ON STEEL SIGNED AFTER DELAY

Corporation, Union Set Official Approval on Wage Pact.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 23 — A contract providing a $1-per-day wage increase for 140,000 employes of U. S. Steel Corp. subsidiaries was signed today by representatives of management and the CIO United Steel Workers.

Charles R. Cox, president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., one of the subsidiaries, told the union men:

"We have a great deal of faith in your leader (union President Philip Murray).

Faith in Murray

"We have taken a big step here and we are taking it because we have faith."

The agreement, said spokesmen for both sides, was all sewed up two days ago when the union's executive board and wage-policy committee approved it. It needed only the signatures of top union and company executives to make it official.

Reporters and news photographers and representatives of both sides assembled at 3 p. m. yesterday for the ceremony. The signing was delayed while the legal minds worked out the final phraseology of the contract.

Postponed Formal Signing

Finally, after much haggling John A. Stephens, vice president in charge of industrial relations for U. S. Steel, announced the agreement would not be signed until today.

The CIO has scheduled contract talks with Jones and Laughlin, Inland, and Bethlehem Steel Corporations.

Edward A. Ross, president of the Weirton Independent Union, Inc., which represents about 12,000 Weirton Steel Co. employes, said, "We expect momentarily the fruitful termination of our wage talks."

The Weirton union, long a bitter foe of the Steel Workers, last year won a 12-cent hourly increase for its workers. Weirton Steel was the only major steel company not affected by last year's month-long nationwide steel strike.

LONG-RANGE HOUSING BILL WINS APPROVAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—The senate banking committee approved 7 to 6 today a long-range housing bill designed to encourage construction of 15,000,000 homes by 1958.

Senator Buck (R-Del) told reporters the committee deadlocked, 6 to 6, on the first vote and had to telephone Senator Maybank (D-SC), who was on an official visit to the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., to break the tie. Maybank voted with the majority.

The senate passed a similar bill during the last session of congress, but the measure was shelved in the house. Senators Wagner (D-NY), Ellender (D-La) and Taft (R-Ohio) sponsored both bills.

Buck estimates the cost of the program to the federal government at about $7,500,000,000 over a 45-year period.

The bill provides for aiding the private housing industry "to make its full contribution toward an economy of maximum employmen, production and purchasing power."

A policy statement in the bill declares:

"The general welfare and security of the nation * * * require a production of residential construction and related community development sufficient to remedy the serious cumulative housing shortage, to eliminate slums and blighted areas, and to realize as soon as feasible the goal of a decent home and suitable living environment for every American family."

Hope for Austrian Pact Gone, U. S. Officials Say

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 23—American officials said today it appeared that all hope of completing an Austrian peace treaty in Moscow is gone and that the last session of the council of foreign ministers here probably will be held tonight or tomorrow.

Still granting there is a chance to break up the deadlock on key issues, informants said the best opinion now, based on results of three secret sessions held Monday and Tuesday, is that the Austrian peace pact is "out the window" for the present.

23-Year-Old Youth Kills 2 Police in Gun Battle

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 23—A 23-year-old youth shot two policemen to death in a street corner gun battle early today.

The officers killed were Sgt. Samuel Hewitt, 47, and James Quigley, 35.

A detective officer said the youth identified himself as William Hallowell and that he was the adopted son of a Northwestern university professor.

The spokesman said the youth, who had four gun wounds, stated his mother was divorced from Dr. Alfred I. Hallowell, former professor of anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania and now at Northwestern university.

The shooting followed a wild race through North Philadelphia streets as two patrol cars chased Hallowell in what Sgt. John Creedom said was a stolen car.

In Chicago, Dr. Hallowell said he was "too shocked" to discuss the shooting.

"I have not seen him for some time," he said.

Hospital attaches described the youth's condition as "very poor."

Creedon said the youth is an escapee from a private school for delinquents at Staatsburg, N. Y.

The police sergeant said he received a report of a stolen car and dispatched two one-man patrol cars to the scene.

One of the cars picked up Sgt. Hewitt and gave chase.

The other car joined in the pursuit and when the car Creedon said was stolen was forced to halt behind a bus blocking its path, he stated that Hallowell fired at the two patrol cars.

Hewitt was killed by a bullet through the chest and Quigley in the other car was killed by a shot through the neck.

RAIL MONOPOLY CHARGE AIRED

U. S. Says "Private Government" Functions in Transportation Industry.

By The Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb., April 23—The justice department charged in federal district court today that a "private government" is functioning in the railroad industry to maintain a monopoly in transportation.

Assistant Attorney General Wendell Berge raised this contention in opening the biggest railroad anti-trust case ever undertaken.

Defendants in the civil action, brought in the name of the United States, are the Association of American Railroads, whose membership includes nearly all the principal carriers in the country, 47 specifically named railroads operating west of the Mississippi river, the Western Association of Railway Executives, J. P. Morgan and Co., and Kuhn, Loeb and Co., of New York, and 89 individual officers of the various corporations involved.

"Violate Sherman Act"

The general charge is that the defendants have participated in "a broad and continuing combination and conspiracy in violation of the "Sherman act."

Berge told presiding Judge John W. Delehant the government would show that the defendants not only employed illegal trade restraints in the railroad business but acted with "co-conspirators" in such basic industries as oil, steel, and cement to exercise controls over other far-flung segments of the national economy.

The government's principal contention is that the railroads, during the depression of the early thirties, established "an integrated hierarchy of bureaus and associations constituting a cartelized private government of the railroad industry which has continued to this day."

Berge asserted that "collective control" over rate-making and railroad services resulted and that the Association of American Railroads acted as "ultimate arbiter of all differences" between the member roads.

"Acknowledging no limitation save that imposed by its own self-restraint," said Berge "It (the AAR) prescribes rules and regulations, practices and prohibitions for the government of its members with respect to freight rates and passenger fares, train schedules, and services, the provision of facilities and equipment, the construction and use of rolling stock, and all other matters of general railroad interest."

The 47 western railroads were specifically accused of making in 1932 an agreement concerning rates and services which was not filed with the interstate commerce commission, as required by law, until April 14, 1943. Berge said this was "five days after its production had been demanded or requested by the department of justice."

TO PUT ANTI-RED DRIVE UP TO TRUMAN

Rep. Smith Scores Action of Attorney General.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23 — Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ), of the house committee on un-American activities said today he is taking straight to President Truman his fight for prosecution of Communists.

Thomas told reporters three letters to Attorney General Clark failed to produce results. Now, he said, he is by-passing Clark and drafting a letter to the President.

"In view of his great interest in eradicating Communists from the government," the chairman said, "he should use his authority to obtain proper action from the attorney general, a member of his cabinet.

"The time has come for him to step in and take a hand."

Thomas said many house members showed dissatisfaction yesterday "with the lack of prosecution" of Communists.

Rep. Kunkel (R-Pa), raised a question whether impeachment of the attorney general might not have a "salutary effect." Rep. Frederick C. Smith (R-Ohio), said that is "the only proceeding we have to compel the attorney general to do his duty."

Those remarks were made during the debate which led to almost unanimous house approval of contempt actions against two men identified as top Communists. They are Eugene Dennis, Communist party secretary, and Leon Josephson, who was described as head of a ring that forged American passports for Russian secret agents.

LEWIS E. LAWES

WARDEN LAWES DIES AT 63

Head of Sing Sing Prison for 21 Years Taken by Death.

By The Associated Press

GARRISON, N. Y., April 23 — Lewis E. Lawes, 63, who for 21 years was warden at Sing Sing prison at Ossining, N. Y., and was one of the nation's outstanding authorities on prison problems, died early today at his home here.

Lawes and the walled fastness high over the Hudson river that is Sing Sing prison became almost synonymous during his 21 years as warden of the "Big House" at Ossining, N. Y.

He retired July 16, 1941, with a reputation as one of the nation's outstanding penologists and a humanitarian handler of the 36,750 prisoners who came under his care during his wardenship.

Took Job in 1918

He arrived at Ossining on a gray winter day in December, 1919, an appointee of Governor Alfred E. Smith, at a time when Sing Sing was a "Warden's Graveyard." He was the fourteenth warden named in 10 years. Escapes were frequent—between 20 and 30 "breaks" a year. Under Lawes all that was changed. There were only two violent escapes during his tenure.

From the first day he took over, when he refused to address the prisoners from a platform, but insisted on speaking to them from their own level in the prison yard, he humanized the institution.

He credited his success to an iron - hand - in - a - velvet-glove policy: "I have always attempted to steer a straight course, avoiding coddling on one hand and brutality on the other."

Opposed Capital Punishment

He officiated at 303 executions, although he was a bitter foe of capital punishment. He arranged details of the executions with a heavy heart and always turned his head at the moment the death-dealing electric switch was thrown.

He found that broken homes were a contributing factor in 70 per cent of the crime cases he studied. Divorces, separations, death of one of the parents and drunkenness were high on the list.

"We should talk of problem parents instead of problem children," he once said. "For the germs of crime are bred in broken homes."

He saw the crime problem as one to be solved outside prison walls through education of the public to its causes.

Favored Education

The greatest reforms needed in handling criminals, he believed, were public education; elimination of politics from appointment of prison officials and the substitution of the merit system; abolition of capital punishment; greater prison facilities to reduce overcrowding; employment for prisoners in trades which will be useful when they leave prison and coordination of civic agencies for crime prevention.

"The average citizen thinks the problem of a criminal is ended when the prison doors clang behind him," he once said. "Actually, the problem is only beginning. The man inside prison is the same man he was outside. We have no pill we can give him which will change him overnight. Any rehabilitation must come

VOTE FOR FLAT HIKE FROM GM

Union Executives State Increase Must Come with "No Strings."

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 23—The CIO United Auto Workers' 200-man national General Motors council voted unanimously today to demand from the corporation a straight 15-cent hourly wage increase without any strings attached.

General Motors had turned down the 15-cent union proposal Tuesday night.

The UAW's top negotiators will take the council's ultimatum back to another conference with the corporation starting at 2 p. m.

Rejection of General Motor's latest offer of 11½ cents hourly wage hike and an additional 3½ cents for six annual holidays pay came in a voice vote by the national council after President Walter P. Reuther had strongly recommended that action.

"Press for 15 Cents"

In a speech the red-haired Reuther reiterated the auto workers should press for a straight 15-cents increase without General Motors "telling us how we should spend it."

A union announcement said the national council will meet again tonight at 8 p. m. and will be ready to consider any proposal that may develop from the afternoon negotiating session with GM.

At the close of last night's session, Reuther charged GM with an "arrogant, arbitrary attitude" in demanding acceptance of its offer of 11½ cents hourly, with an additional 3½ cents for the six holidays.

There was no GM comment. Further talks were set for 2 p. m. today after the union's meeting with its council representing 225,000 rank and file workers.

Explains Dissatisfaction

UAW dissatisfaction with the GM proposal, basis of a settlement between the corporation and the CIO United Electrical Workers and United Rubber Workers, stems from the auto workers' wish to "decide how they want to spend their money," Reuther explained at a press conference.

Against the company offer to put nearly a third of the boost into payment for holidays, the union put forth a counter-proposal that the increase be paid as a flat raise or used in part for a social security and retirement plan.

FINANCIER CONVICTED OF DRAFT EVASION

NEW YORK, April 23—Serge Rubinstein, 39, Russian-born international financier, was sentenced today to two and one-half years in prison and fined $50,000 on his conviction of draft law violation.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 23—Serge Rubinstein, 39, Russian-born financier who came to this country in 1938 on Portuguese citizenship papers, and two co-defendants at his draft evasion trial, were convicted last night and faced sentencing in federal court today.

Rubinstein was indicted on Jan. 30, 1946, on charges of falsely representing his non-liability for military service to a local draft board, on Feb. 2, 1943.

Allen Gordon Foster, former director of the Panhandle Producing and Refining Company, and James C. Hart, former president of the Taylorcraft Aviation Corp., were convicted of making false statements and conspiring to aid Rubinstein evade military service.

Rubenstein paled slightly when he heard the verdict of the all-male jury, which had deliberated seven hours. The verdict of guilty on all counts was returned at 10:00 p. m. last night.

Vote on Isaly Union Contract Set Tonight

Members of the Isaly Dairy unit of local 750, UAW (CIO) will be asked tonight to accept or reject a contract agreement reached last night between the union's executive committee and the company management.

Tonight's meeting of the union membership will be held at 8 o'clock in the Steelworkers' hall on East Center street. The union has 36 members, including plant workers and truck drivers.

Negotiations between the company and the union's executive committee ended late last night, according to Edward Duck, international representative of the UAW and spokesman for the union. Chief issues of the contract, Mr. Duck said, are wage adjustments and vacation pay.

It's No Joke, Son, To NBC As Hope, Skelton Join "Cut" List

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, April 23—It's no joke to the National Broadcasting Co. when its high-priced comedians poke fun at their bosses.

The network, which cut Fred Allen off the air briefly Sunday when he sought to comment on the activities of a mythical NBC vice president, gave Bob Hope and Red Skelton the same treatment last night when they essayed a little ribbing on the Allen case.

Red was silenced for about 12 seconds when, after an exchange of quips with his straight man, he said:

"Be careful, we might ad lib something that will hurt the dignity of some NBC vice president. Did you hear them cut Fred Allen off Sunday?"

That's when they pulled the plug on Red, but he went right on for the benefit of his studio audience:

"You know what NBC means, don't you? Nothing but cuts, nothing but confusion, nobody certain."

He had the last word, anyway, because when they put him back on the air he commented "Well, we have now joined the parade of stars."

Hope got in bad after referring to Las Vegas, Nev., wide open gambling resort city, as the "only place in the world where you can get tanned and faded at the same time." He then added "Of course, Fred Allen can be faded anytime," and the switch was thrown.

Network officials were silent beyond the brief statement that the censored material was "objectionable to NBC."

Allen started the whole thing Sunday night in New York when he referred to a non-existent NBC vice president who, he said, was "in charge of program ends" and "noted the time saved when programs ran overtime."

Allen explained that his functionary saved up seconds, minutes and hours until he had amassed two weeks, then took a two-week vacation. His sponsor's advertising agency claimed Allen was cut off the air for 35 seconds, and said it would bill NBC for the lost time.

Stench Bombs and Boos Greet Opera Singer Kirsten Flagstad

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 23—The aroma of stench bombs and boos filled the hallowed academy of music at the Kirsten Flagstad concert last nighth in what a music critic today described as the "worst demonstration" ever experienced at the academy.

The outbreak came at a concert given by the Norwegian soprano as pickets paraded before the academy with signs reading: "Flagstad preferred a Nazi regime—don't play second fiddle!—stay out" and "Artists are not judgment . We condemned Hitler! We condemn Flagstad!"

More than 1,000 persons were present when Mme. Flagstad made her initial appearance on stage. She was greeted with a wild ovation which lasted more than a moment and her first selection was well received.

Booing began and the first stench bomb was dropped in the loges. But Mme. Flagstad's supporters were not driven out.

Ushers and detectives ejected hecklers as another stench bomb was dropped.

Then several of the patrons accosted a heckler and for a few moments before detectives converged on the scene there was a free-for-all virtually at the singer's feet with opposing sides shouting "Communist" and "Fascist" at each other.

No arrests were made.

THE NATION TODAY

This Congress' Most Important Measures Now in Final Stages

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 23—Two of the most important measures this congress will handle are on their last lap there now.

Both are more far-reaching than anyone at this time perhaps can tell. But together they show the mood of congress at home and abroad.

The two are:

1. A bill to give $400,000,000 in aid to Greece and Turkey.

2. A bill to restrict labor unions.

From what has happened with those bills so far it is clear congress is determined to stop the spread of Communism abroad and to curb unions here.

James Marlow

The senate passed the Greek-Turkish aid bill yesterday. Now it shuttles over to the house for a vote.

The house will approve President Truman who asked for the bill, will sign it into law.

Last week the house approved a labor bill, the toughest in history. And today the senate was to start debate on a labor bill, also very tough.

But when Mr. Truman gets the finished labor bill he may try to kill it with a veto. It will be tougher than the one he wanted.

(Congress could pass it into law over his veto with a two-thirds vote).

But take a look at the two bills and what the future may hold if both become law.

The aid to Greece and Turkey—money and arms—starts this country on a new policy in foreign affairs.

It throws us into the internal doings of at least two European nations.

The purpose to stop the spread of Communism in Europe.

May Start Endless Chain

But once we start with Greece and Turkey, we may have to go on giving similar help to other countries which ask help against Communism.

No one knows where that may lead us, or whether eventually it will mean war with Russia.

So with the aid to Greece and Turkey we start a program but can't tell now it will end.

The senate apparently thought this was a chance necessary to take so long as Communism could be stopped.

As to the labor bill—

The congressmen who voted for this bill said strong measures are necessary to put some curbs on labor union activities.

Will Smash Unions

Enemies of the bill talked this way.

It goes so far that it will, in effect, smash unions. They predicted the result would be chaos in this country.

(This is said in reference to the house bill, which is tougher than the senate version.

(But the finished bill, when the senate gets through, will still be the most severe labor bill in history).

So here again with the labor bill—as in the case of the Greek-Turkish aid bill—no one in congress confidently can predict the outcome.

There's a good chance that, if Mr. Truman vetoes the labor bill, congress can't get up the necessary two-thirds vote to make it law anyway.

In that case this present congress may wind up the year without having passed any labor laws.

But the AFL isn't taking any chances. It's going to spend $1,500,000 on advertising to try to defeat the bill by raising a storm against it.

Does Stomach Gas and Bloat Make You Feel Miserable?

If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in freeing your stomach from this nervous distress. It works this way: Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; also the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a moody, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up nonorganic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

YOUR HEALTH

Sore Throat

With all our new germ-fighting drugs at hand we are anxious to know which will give the best and quickest results in a given illness.

Take sore throat, for instance. Many times this ailment and tonsillitis as well are due to what is known as the hemolytic streptococci, a bug which either penicillin or the sulfonmaide drugs will attack.

The question both doctor and patient are interested in is whether one will attack it more efficiently and kill it off more quickly than the other. It is more important to answer it correctly because if these germs once become intrenched, they can cause extensive damage in other and more vital parts of the body.

In order to get definite information about this, Dr. Wesley W. Spink and his co-workers of Minnesota made a study of 114 patients with these conditions who were treated with sulfadiazine or penicillin. Results obtained were compared with the progress of 102 patients who did not receive these preparations. Nineteen severely ill patients received the sulfadiazine. Thirteen of the nineteen had tonsillitis and six had sore throat.

With this treatment the symptoms were cleared up much more rapidly than in the patients who did not get sulfadiazine. The swelling of the throat tissues as well as the soreness often subsided to a great degree within 12 to 18 hours after treatment had been started. On the other hand, it did not appear that the sulfadiazine treatment shortened the course of the symptoms, nor did the treatment seem completely to eliminate the streptococci germs from the throat. That is, after the sickness was over, many of the persons continued to carry the strenptococcus germ.

A total of 95 patients were treated with penicillin. Six of these patients had rheumatic fever, a condition in which there are pain and swelling of the joints and damage to the heart muscle. It was found that with the penicillin treatment, within 8 to 12 hours after it was started, most of the patients looked and felt better. Other than this it did not appear that the penicillin had any particular effects in either reducing the fever or shortening the course of the sickness.

It would seem also that if large enough doses of penicillin are used the streptococci are completely eliminated from the nose and throat and but few of the patients continue to be carriers of the germs.

It would seem that either sulfadiazine or penicillin is of value in the treatment of tonsillitis and sore throat due to hemolytic streptococci. The physician will decide which of these preparations should be used or if some other sulfonamide preparation may not be desirable.

Cheaper Steel Later—Maybe

AGREEMENT between United States Steel Corp. and United Steel Workers on a two-year contract based on a 12½-cent-an-hour wage increase, with accompanying benefits sufficient to bring the general average up to more than 15 cents, sets the pace for the 1947 round of industrial contracts. This is approximately the same pattern agreed on between United Electrical Workers and key employers in the electrical industry.

The pattern will be embodied, with minor variations, in hundreds of other contracts, always with the wishful and unofficial proviso that it should be discounted as heavily as possible by increased efficiency of production to keep it from becoming a net addition to wage-rate inflation. Fortunately, that can be done. The prospect at this time is for uninterrupted production in major industries. United Automobile Workers probably will take their cue from United Steel Workers. Even United Mine Workers may be permitted to stay at work this year. As for the only major strike now in progress, that of the telephone workers, it apparently is not wages which are involved in their case so much as issues of organization.

There is one uncertainty in the "big steel" settlement, however. Early this month there were rumors of a reduction in steel prices. Such an announcement, if made, would have had powerful effect on price psychology. It would have been a direct move toward stabilization, because of the prestige and influence of the steel industry.

The public must assume that United States Steel Corp. chose between cutting prices and raising wage rates; and that it saw no merit in a compromise which would have enabled it to do both. Or if the public must assume that the decision lay with United Steel Workers, instead of the corporation, this important union must have been more interested in wage rates than price reduction. In any event, steel prices apparently aren't going to be reduced.

Steel wages now are high—$1.47 an hour on the average in United States Steel, according to President Benjamin F. Fairless. But they are not too high if they permit the public to obtain steel in adequate amounts at a stable price, with hope of reduction if production efficiency warrants. Wages are never too high, unless they cause disproportion in prices. Steel prices are not disproportionately high, though it is an interesting possibility that they might be reduced if the industry's new wage pattern is accompanied by a rise in efficiency of production.

Unhappy Happy

WITH THE exception of Henry Wallace, no public figure has been taking more of a panning than A. B. Chandler, the not-so-happy high commissioner of baseball. Since his suspension of Leo Durocher for one year, uncomplimentary adjectives have been spattering about him like overripe tomatoes on Halloween.

A key to the plight Chandler finds himself in is his nickname, which is Happy. A glad-handing politician with a smile and a pat on the back for all, he suddenly finds himself in the shoes of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, a grim, unapproachable jurist with a reputation for severity during his years on the federal bench. Strong men ran for cover when Judge Landis was displeased. He was austere and he discouraged familiarity. When he handed down a ruling, it came without delay, and try as he might, no sports page expert could pick a flaw in it. Everybody knew the judge was boss.

Happy Chandler has tried to carry his sunny-boy reputation into the commissioner's job. But you can't play the prince of good fellows and pal around with baseball officials one day and expect to crack the whip over them the next. Judge Landis knew that before he became commissioner. Happy may have found out too late.

Gas Comes Into Its Own

HERETOFORE regarded principally as a fuel, natural gas in the next few years will become the source of vast quantities of synthetic gasoline, industrial alcohol and other chemicals.

The American Chemical Society estimates that in the next decade 20 per cent of America's gasoline supply will be made from gas, with the result that it will in effect almost double the nation's vanishing petroleum resources. Gas also will take the place of molasses as the source of industrial alcohol. Since the nation's supply is estimated at 160 trillion cubic feet, our needs should be taken care of for the next generation or two.

Thus does natural gas move to the fore as one of our principal resources. What used to be burned off as a nuisance in the oil fields is taking the place of coal in many factories and homes; it is collected, piped, liquefied, stored and "cracked." It will be one of the big wheels in our national economy.

The word "acrobat" derives from Greek words meaning to go on tiptoe.

News Behind the News

Public Still in Dark on Effect of Wage Increases.

WASHINGTON, April 22—The peculiar thing about the Big Steel agreement for another round of wage increases, 15 cents an hour this time, is that neither side considered the primarily important public point of interest. The initial announcements at least said nothing about a price increase, but rather ominously avoided the subject.

Certain senators noticed this. A new wrinkle seems to have developed in management-union agreements which was not considered in the pending labor legislation. The possibility is now being foreseen that management could make agreements with unions which would break the national economic policy of the government. No adequate provision had been made for this.

The house and senate labor committees had been absorbed in promoting equal rights and opportunity for both sides in their dealing but forgot the third side. Most of the committeemen with whom I talked had assumed management would naturally protect the public against too high wages and the unions would naturally protect the public against too low wages. They did not foresee the possibilities which arose first in the electrical workers settlement with General Motors (neither side mentioned price increases there either) that management might merely pass along increased costs to the public.

What cost wage increases?

U. S. Steel President Fairless says his agreement will increase the labor costs to his company by $75,000,000 a year. The CIO union says the cost will be $42,000,000. They are both grinding their axes as usual. The average of their estimates would be an increase of $59,000,000. This is only the beginning of the cost to the public. The Electric-GM settlement was supposed to furnish a pattern for the auto industry. The Big Steel agreement is supposed to furnish the pattern for the nation. The ultimate cost to the public of the settlement therefore could be billions.

The strategy of Big Steel, I am told by certain insiders, is that the settlement is apt to be sufficiently unpopular to push the pending union reform legislation through congress. As a matter of fact, however, the legislation is well on its way to final enactment within a few weeks by majorities which azure its success over an expected presidential veto. Of the union strategy in the settlement, I am not so sure. Steel is the chief ingredient in the manufacture of automobiles. If the steel price goes up and the union labor costs of the auto go up together, the effect upon the price of automobiles could be tremendous. Last year the workers in both industries got an 18½ cents an hour increase and the price of cars went up, I believe, about $75 each, according to announcements, although the price increase may have been more. At any rate the pattern settlement last year caused a general national increase of prices—the very condition upon which the unions are getting this new price increase.

Wages

What cost wage increases? The answer is: illimitable.

Mr. Truman said last week if prices increased again, further wage increases would be justified. Well if these settlements result in another price increase, then the unions can follow Mr. Truman and demand another wage increase. Each step is another zooming push upward in an inflationary spiral, which diminishes all values toward the destruction point.

These developments may not prove as unhappy as their nature suggests. They may lead the Republicans to strengthen their bill in time. Indeed Mr. Truman could well join any move to establish firmly the present economic line until full production restores the forces of competitive enterprise. They could both join in stopping any further price increases or wage increases until those forces become operative.

These pattern agreements have already been made, true enough. But congress could easily provide that any such step taken in the public interest be made retroactive, say to the day of the last election.

How's Business?
Going To The Women

A woman has been elected president of the Oak Harbor, Ohio, Businessmen's association.

It may be a man's world, but women are coming more and more to run it.

Women have been moving in on business faster than organized labor. Those who thought the little woman would go back to the kitchen once the war was over reckoned without knowledge of her worsening allergy to dishwater.

The manpower shortage is over, but the female replacements linger on.

Time was when every girl wanted to get married and establish a home. Now she wants to get incorporated and establish a business.

MacArthur freed the Philippines, Lincoln freed the slaves, and the modern miss is freeing herself. The maternal instinct has been replaced by the profit motive.

Still, it should come as no surprise that women increasingly are replacing men in the business world. They not only have more intuition, but also fewer scruples.

Return of Railroad Lands

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON—"Land - grant" railroads which charged the government full freight rates during the war are paying for the privilege in part by forfeiting their claim to thousands of acres in public lands. An interior department tabulation for 19 of the railroads listed the land upon which they must relinquish long-standing claims, under a recent Supreme Court decision, at some 55,992 acres.

This amount remained from an original apportionment of 282,780 acres. Eight of the 19 railroads had patented claims to a total of 226,788 acres before the war and thus retain title to them.

Largest Excluded

The tabulation did not include a 20th line, the largest land-grant railroad of them all, the Northern Pacific. Interior Department officials said they could not even guess at the amount of land originally claimed by this company. They ventured only that "it must be hundreds of thousands of acres."

The railroad and the department's Bureau of Land Management must check over huge volumes of records to determine this acreage. An earlier proposed study of Northern Pacific land-grant claims was cancelled as not worth the cost and tremendous amount of research involved.

Three-quarters of a century ago the government set out to encourage settlement of the vast, newly-acquired areas of the West and South.

It did this by granting to railroad companies which would build lines into the area acreage estimated by some authorities at 134,303,668 acres—the equivalent of Pennsylvania, New York and the New England States combined.

Settlers Move In

When the railroads got around to claiming the land that had been given them, they found large portions of it already occupied by newly-arrived settlers. Rather than displace these settlers, the government allowed the railroads to select other tracts, which became known as "lieu lands"—lands in lieu of the original grants.

The original acts required the land-grant railroads to carry government goods and personnel free. Through judicial interpretations, the land-grant lines for half a century before 1940 carried government goods and personnel at half the standard commercial rates.

In the depression years, earnings declined and steps were taken to help the carriers. The Transportation Act of 1940 permitted land-grant roads to charge the government full commercial rates except on Army and Navy freight and personnel, on condition that they release any land claims they might have against the government.

Suit Pushed

After the war the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad sued to assert its rights to public lands in New Mexico and Arizona, on the ground that these were "lieu lands" not involved in the rate-increase release of claims.

The District of Columbia District Court dismissed the suit, but the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the lower court's decision.

The Supreme Court upset the Circuit Court decision, sustaining an appeal by the secretary of the interior. The Supreme Court ruled that the 1940 transportation act defined an intent of Congress to wipe the slate clean of all such claims by any railroad which availed itself of the rate concessions.

The Bureau of Land Management says the forfeited land will remain in the public domain. Much of it is unfit for homesteading and some of it is claimed by Indian tribes.

WHATEVER ELSE YOU DO, UNCLE

Mr. Solad's Plans

By STEWART ALSOP

CAIRO, April 23—Animals in Egypt, and in most other middle eastern countries, are more valuable commodities than people. The donkeys, horses and camels are on the whole better fed, housed and cared for than the unfortunate fellahin. A few years back, Americans could afford to react to this information with an indifference only faintly tinged with a mild and distant indignation. It has now become, however, a fact which closely affects the vital American interest. For Egypt, like a number of other states in this area, is a Marxist's dream of a decadent capitalist state rushing headlong down the Gadarene slope toward social revolution.

The Soviet Union may well now have temporarily shelved any plans for military expansion in this area in the near future. Yet enormous opportunities remain for political expansion, and there are many signs that the Soviets intend to exploit these opportunities, and to exploit them far more astutely than in the past.

This exploitation is now only in the preliminary stage. The center of direction for all Communist activity in the Middle East is Beirut, and the supreme commander of this activity is a Soviet official with the curious name of Daniel S. Solad. Solad knew nothing about Middle Eastern affairs when he first arrived as a secretary in the Soviet embassy in Cairo some years ago, but according to those who have met him, he is a clever man. He has caught on very quickly.

New Approach

This intelligence and aptitude are reflected in the current Soviet and Communist line in Egypt and elsewhere in this area. For Solad and his superiors in Moscow have clearly recognized that the old-style propaganda, with its anti-religious, materialist and rigidly Marxist overtones is not suited to the social pattern of the Middle East. Therefore, a new approach has been devised, with three principal points of emphasis, each designed for maximum effect.

The first is Mohammedanism. The Soviets have apparently recognized that their anti-religious reputation in the intensely religious Middle East is a hurdle which must be removed. Therefore, every care is taken to present the Soviet Union as the great friend and protector of the Moslem faith. The Soviet Ambassador in Cairo, Abdul Rachman Sultanoff, is a somewhat ostentatiously devout Moslem, who appears with becoming and highly visible regularity at the mosque. A great Soviet Mohammedan university has been established at Tashkent in Central Asia, and promising young Moslem intellectuals are given free courses there. The Soviet radio regularly beams toward the Middle East readings from the Koran, a great and difficult art beautifully performed by the Soviet readers. Soviet radio propagandists have even spoken kindly of the extreme right-wing Moslem brotherhood. And so on.

Nationalism

Second, there is nationalism. This reduces itself in effect to the cry, "out with the British," repeated both on the Moscow radio and by the members of secret Communist cells, who are instructed to repeat anti-British and anti-foreign stories in the bazaars, without giving the source. Here the Soviets are tapping a rich vein, for a violent nationalist xenophobia is one of the chief underlying factors in Middle Eastern politics.

Finally, the third point of Soviet emphasis is simply change. Change is the basic Soviet point, and it is in the long run their strongest point. For they stand for revolution in a situation which throughout the Middle East is essentially revolutionary. There is no expert in this area—even among the normally highly conservative British Colonial Office officials—who is not convinced that a blow-up will come sooner or later, and probably sooner.

Situation in Egypt

Egypt is the leading example of why this conviction is so widely held. For here the wealth of the state is entirely in the hands of a tiny minority of immensely rich and wholly irresponsible landowners and traders. So are the political parties. There are no right, center, and left parties in Egypt, but rather only right and further right, the Wafdists and the Saadists. The misery of the mass of the people is unspeakable. Between the fabulously rich ruling class on the one hand and the miserable fellahin on the other there is a small class of so-called "intellectuals," graduates of universities, jobless, dissatisfied, restless. These men, rather than the lethargic fellahin, frighten the ruling class. And rightly so, for given the necessary conditions, and the necessary backing, they are capable of lighting the spark.

Certainly it is possible to exaggerate the immediate possibilities of pro-Soviet revolution in the Middle Eastern countries. Americans especially, newly arrived here, are apt to suffer from what one old Middle East hand calls the "What, no Crane plumbing?" psychology: "What, no Crane plumbing? There's sure to be a revolution tomorrow." It must be borne in mind that there never has been Crane plumbing, or indeed enough to eat, for the mass of the people in the Middle East, and that the ageless dumb lethargy of the peasants has kept the social structure essentially unchanged since the Middle Ages.

Yet under certain circumstances the underfed fellah is capable of a sudden wolfish ferocity. During the recent rioting in Cairo a British military policeman was mobbed and hanged. When he was cut down, his body was found to bear the marks of teeth; in a hysteria of rage the crowds had bitten right through the heavy stuff of his battle dress. The hatred of which this is a symbol is now turned against the British, and to a lesser extent against the Christian minorities (news of anti-Christian riots in Zigazag and elsewhere has recently been suppressed by the Egyptian authorities). But it is capable of being turned elsewhere, and in the opinion of many expert observers, sooner or later it will be.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, April 23, 1937. Elaine Barrie, 21, the "Ariel" to John Barrymore's "Caliban," was granted a divorce from the 55-year-old star of stage and screen in a Los Angeles, Calif. court. It marked the end of Barrymore's fourth marriage, a union that lasted little more than four months.

Mrs. Edward E. Everett, 58, was fatally burned in a gasoline explosion in the brooder house of the Everett farm house near La-Rue.

Mrs. Fillmore Young was hostess when the Shakespeare club met to celebrate the birthday anniversary of the bard and also to close the club season. Taking part in a program were Mrs. J. W. Jolley, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Clarence M. Long, Mrs. J. A. Dodd, Mrs. F. C. Gegenheimer and Mrs. J. A. Slanser.

King Karl Hubbell of the New York Giants pitched a three-hit 3-0 shutout against the Boston Bees for the Giants' second straight win of the season and his own 17th straight in league competition.

Tumbling and feats of balancing made up a program presented by members of the boys' gymnasium classes of Harding High school at the school gym. Novelty acts were staged by William Weston and Paul Bishop.

Mrs. C. E. Huston of Paulding, O. was the guest of Misses Sylvia and Belle Cellar of East Center street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, April 23, 1927. With the flood death toll slowly mounting in the Mississippi valley, the town of Greenville, Miss., the center of the state's delta, was ordered evacuated. The flood was called the worst in the history of the lower Mississippi valley.

Chauncey M. Depew, noted former U. S. senator from New York, celebrated his ninety-third birthday anniversary.

Miss Esther Dickason, clerk of the city board of health, completed her report, listing 1,896 grade pupils as having taken the Schick test. Of that number 896 registered "negative," signifying they were immune from diphtheria.

A. H. Trout, former county commissioner, was in a serious condition at his home on Mt. Vernon avenue, following a stroke of paralysis.

Forty-nine tables were filled for a musical bridge and tea given by the Senior Lecture-Recital club at Schwinger's hall.

Swiss Profiting From GI Furloughs

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND—Approximately 300,000 American furloughees in the past 18 months have brought Switzerland an income of $27,565,000.

Dr. Paul Buchi, Swiss chief of the American furlough action in Switzerland, arrives at these figures as follows:

At the outset of a week's furlough, each of the 300,000 visitors has paid $38 for food, lodging and transportation in Switzerland, amounting to $11,400,000.

In addition, each visitor was allowed $52.95 as pocket money for his week's stay, amounting to an expenditure of $15,885,000 for watches, music boxes, wood carvings and other souvenirs and notions.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Forgotten Man Thinks It Over

The Forgotten Man is now beginning to wish he could forget what it cost him to be remembered.

• • •

The depression took away all that he had. It now has it back but he feels worse than ever. He could tell he was in a hole without study of charts.

• • •

He is better off by optical illusion and happier by figures he can't understand. He has been reconditioned, reconstructed, refinanced and revitalized but he feels worse than ever. He is suffering from Reconfusion.

• • •

He doesn't know whether he is coming or going. But he is sure the fare both ways is up. He isn't sure whether he is afoot or on horseback but he knows that shoes and saddles both come under the head of luxuries.

• • •

He has listened to so many economists, seen so many blueprints, harkened to so many fiscal prophets and medicine men and sat up so many nights with so many rescue squads that he has lost his capacity to think straight and sacrificed his instinct for knowing whether he is ill or well or medium.

• • •

He is suffering from hardening of the suspicions, enlargement of the skepticism and overdevelopment of his animosity glands.

• • •

What America needs most is a little mutual trust on all social levels.

• • •

The tragedy of the ear is man's suspicion that the other fellow is trying to put something over on him. The "we're all one happy family" mood in any plant is a rarity. This is the day of the worker who sees a conspiracy on every side and of the boss who sees a trick in every movement.

• • •

Even the pacifiers and the "let us have accord" workers distrust one another. The fellow who says "We must all have faith in our fellow man" looks under the bed, and then takes a second look for verification.

• • •

We are in an age of catch-as-catch-can philosophies, quick detachable convictions and cooked-to-order ideologies. We live in a school of thinking which dodges facts and clasps to its bosom any idea that comes with built-in monkey wrenches.

• • •

We have derapped the "How far is up" riddle, abolished the idea that all men must work together or peddle apples separately, and replaced the statues of Ben Franklin with busts of screwball economists and cockeyed editorial writers, all of whom preach life will not be beautiful until we combine duty with the daily double.

The world in which people had questions to ask is gone. Today everybody is offering answers only.

• • •

We have gone from OPA to SOS. And from the five cent cigar to the fifty five dollar cigarlighter. We are living in the Fathead's Paradise and in the Elysian Fields of the gimme-gimme groups, the rainbow chasers, the everybody's-wrong-but-me boys and the free loaders.

• • •

The America which withstood the Indian attack, drove off the wolves and conquered a wilderness to build a great nation now wants ease and prosperity through pushbutton pressing. And with the necessity to push a button eliminated on weekends.

• • •

The agitators are having a picnic, the professors are having a field day and the composite picture of an American shows a man rocking a boat.

• • •

The American who blazed a trail over mountains, endured all hardships and won over the toughest handicaps now wants to sit down while traveling by escalator.

• • •

And he demands bigger escalators on Sundays and holidays.

• • •

The command is "Forward!" But we have our skates on backwards. President Truman is considering a trip to Alaska. The climate there is an ideal one in which to read Henry Wallace's speeches.

THE great danger in the international situation today is that Russia will get so sore at America that she won't permit us to lend her any money.

It's a Standoff

By TRUMAN TWILL

Harry Truman, Mr. President in person, crossed up the onlookers at the opening game in Washington by blooping out the first pitch with his right hand, after the announcer had introduced him as the Nation's No. 1 Southpaw.

This will be regarded in political circles as an omen. If Mr. Truman won't even throw a baseball from the left any more, the leftists really have been stranded. When Hen Wallace gets the news in the old country, he will add extra expletives to his next speech.

But elsewhere, outside political circles, the pitch switch get attention too, especially from the tiny minority of U. S. citizens who are both right and left-handed. Mr. Truman is probably the first representative they ever had in the White House. This is a big moment for them—for us, that is.

We are one of those who are both right and left-handed—ambidextrous. We use our hands with equal ease. With our right hand we write an illegible scrawl that can't be deciphered. What we write with our left hand can't be read.

Right-handed, our baseball throwing was so bad no one ever picked us to play unless they were short a player. Left-handed, no one ever picked us to play either. Right-handed we can't hit a golf ball with a shovel. Left-handed we can't hit a golf ball with a shovel.

Being ambidextrous at the table is an advantage. With our right hand we manage to drop one out of 10 bites in our lap. With our left hand, out of every 10 bites one drops in our lap. It is likewise with dealing cards—right-handed we spill some, left-handed we spill some.

When using tools we find that with one hand we don't do so well, but with the other hand we don't do so well either. In a delicate operation like shaving, we nick ourself with the right hand. But we nick ourself with the left hand too.

In table tennis, a game still popular, we are less than sensational when playing right-handed. When playing left-handed, on the other hand, we are less than sensational. Raking the yard right-handed is a pain in the shoulders. Raking the yard left-handed is a pain in the shoulders.

That's the way it goes. When writing this column, we struggle along for a while with the left hand, then struggle along for a while with the right hand. It doesn't make any difference. What comes out of one hand is no better than what comes out of the other hand.

Maybe that's what has been happening to Mr. Truman—he has decided he might as well pitch from the starboard, because he never was much of a pitcher from the larboard. We got into that kind of a mess once with horseshoes—couldn't pitch them for sour apples right-handed so switched to the left hand and couldn't pitch them for sour apples from that side either. Mr. Truman is welcome to the tip.

By The Associated Press

John E Wright of the bi-partisan league, a group combating un-American activities, testified subversive texts had been required reading in one Ohio State university course and that others were in Franklin county grade schools

Edward W Erfurt Jr, of Columbus, who identified himself as a criminal investigator, said that three Ohio State students involved in forgery cases expressed opinions against the American form of government.

Rep Claude Woodward (R-Montgomery) asserted Antioch college was "loaded with Communism and that signers of a petition for a slate of state Communist candidates in 1940 still were on the school's payroll

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD"
DANGER IN NEGLECT
No one should ever think of (hemorrhoids) as a mild disorder.
Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.
Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability.
Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

CLU HITS THREE ANTI-LABOR BILLS

Donation Also Voted to Cancer Campaign.

The Marion Central Labor [illegible] meeting in its hall on East [illegible] street last night, voiced opposition to three anti-labor bills now before the state legislature, heard committee reports and approved a $10 donation to the cancer drive.

The union instructed its secretary to wire state representatives urging them to vote against the anti-labor legislation.

Two delegates from the barbers' union, AFL, were received and President Carroll Davidson gave a report on the recent Red Cross drive. The group also approved its share of the expenses of the vocational guidance conference held by the city schools April 11.

An announcement was made of the Marion Federation of Teachers annual banquet, to be held May 2 in the First Evangelical and Reformed church on South Prospect street.

Next regular meeting of the union will be May 13.

NEWSPRINT RATION CALLED NO ANSWER

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 23—Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers association, in a report to ANPA's 55th annual convention today said rationing was not the solution to the newsprint shortage and that evidence showed it might even result in a reduction of the supply available for U. S. consumption.

Williams said "political pressure" was being exerted to restore rationing but that "those best informed believe it would be futile."

"Not a single newspaper has suspended publication for lack of newsprint as the sole cause," Williams said.

"Controlling the use does not make newsprint available automatically to those not now getting all they want," the report said. "Rationing would not restore adequate distribution to the user, from the mill through the merchant, or jobber, or distributor.

"Rationing during wartime was not easy and it was afflicted with pain evident to those desiring to cooperate with their government in time of war. * * *

"If newsprint is rationed all uses of pulpwood would have to be controlled.

"All newspapers do not have as much as they want and not all distress is in publishing weekly, small daily newspapers and scores of specialized publications. There are some large newspapers which could make out a good distress case."

Williams also cautioned publishers to maintain adequate newsprint inventories because of a "serious box car shortage which will remain acute for some time."

The postal committee said it had opposed proposals for increasing postal rates, not "on the selfish grounds that it will prove a burden to newspapers, but on the broader grounds that it is uneconomic" because it would "result in still further decreasing revenues without materially decreasing costs of operation."

VET PAY RAISES UP FOR COURT DECISION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—A federal judge weighed today the question of whether war veterans were entitled to pay increases they might have received had they not been drafted from their jobs to fight the war.

With three similar cases coming up on next week's docket, Judge Mell F. Underwood took under advisement testimony given yesterday by five employes of the Universal Potteries, Inc., of Cambridge, O. The five contended selected service laws guaranteed them better jobs because vacancies occurred while they were away.

The veterans—Harry Tischler, William Ramage, Darrell McCollum, Richard Boyer, and William Rowe—said that they were ordinary laborers when they were drafted. While they were in service, they testified, apprentice-journeyman vacancies for which they would have been eligible occurred, all carrying five per cent wage increases each six months.

The company and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters were co-defendants. The union held its contract required three years of active service before a worker could move up to apprentice-journeyman.

STATE HOSPITAL WARDS HANDLE SPECIAL CASES

Marion and Other Counties in New Division.

Two wards of the Columbus state hospital were set aside for Marion and other central Ohio counties today as a receiving center for mental cases which may respond to quick treatment, according to The Associated Press.

The center will treat emergency and voluntary patients for as long as 90 days. If they fail to improve in that time, they may be sent to the state hospital for longer treatment.

The two wards will accommodate patients from Franklin, Coshocton, Crawford, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Hardin, Knox, Licking, Madison, Morrow, Marion, Muskingum, Pickaway, Richland, Union and Wyandot counties.

Postoffice Accepts Cancer Drive Gifts

In cooperation with the cancer drive, the postoffice department has announced that contributions may be mailed simply to "Cancer" in care of Marion or any other local post office, postage free. Local postmasters will send the contributions to the American Cancer Society, Ohio Division, at Cleveland.

Collections in the Marion county cancer drive now amount to about $1,500, according to Richard Lister, campaign chairman. The goal has been set at $5,000.

Of the 400 membership subscription books, including 4,000 potential memberships, many are still out, and when they are turned in, the total may approach the goal, Lister said.

More than $700 was taken in on tag day last Saturday. The figure is included in the total. No estimate is yet available on collections from coin cans distributed in business and industrial places.

Activities still on the campaign program are a dance to be held at the armory Wednesday night April 30 and a musical revue at Edison Junior high school Friday night, May 2. Tickets to the dance are $2.50 a couple and are being sold by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, American Cancer Society and Kadgar Grotto. They may also be obtained by telephoning 5083, 2408, or 1661 ext. 37.

Ford Workers Told To Ignore Mass Meeting

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 23—The Ford Motor Co. today directed its 75,000 production workers in the Detroit area to remain on their jobs Thursday despite a mass meeting of union labor.

The CIO United Auto Workers have asked all unionists in the area to meet in downtown Cadillac squade from to 2 to 7 p. m. in a protest against anti-labor legislation pending in Washington.

Ford posted notices in its plants stating that Thursday is a regular work day and that any employe leaving his job "does so without the approval of management."

The statements made no direct mention of the mass meeting.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHING CALLED BUSINESS RISK

Conditions Leave No Guarantee of Success, Executive Says.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 23 — W. G. Chandler, president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, said today that although the nation's press continues to serve efficiently "despite greatly increased costs for payroll and paper," there can be "no guarantee of success for a present-day or prospective publisher."

Chandler, a member of the Scripps-Howard advisory board, told the ANPA 61st annual convention there are no exact figures on the mortality rate of newspapers since the government census of 1940.

"Newspapers," he said, "discontinue publication when their owners and operators fail to serve or interest their public. Elimination of the unfit is a major factor in the virility of the American press.

"The people of these United States are voluntarily buying more newspapers at higher prices per copy than in any previous year in our history. Distress for lack of newsprint is relative. There are few, if any, publishers who could not increase sales and profits if more paper were available."

Chandler said "it seemed reasonable to expect a lessening of the problem of wartime publication" but that "the reverse has been the fact."

TIME

differ with their neighbors on whether to make the time change, The Associated Press reported.

In general, the time change will be made on a statewide basis, with most of the states now planning on remaining on standard time being those in the south and west. Most areas make the change at 2 a. m. Sunday, April 27.

All but a dozen villages in New York will go on daylight saving.

In Illinois, Chicago and about half the large downstate cities make the change.

States which at present do not plan to have citizens forfeit the extra hour of Sunday morning sleep are Albama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahomt, South Carolina, South Dakota., Texas, Utah, Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming, and except for Duluth and some iron range communities, Minnesota.

STRIKERS GET CIO BACKING

Labor Council Orders Members To Assist Bell Picket Lines.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., April 23—Striking members of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers in the Toledo area today had the support of the Toledo Industrial Union Council (CIO) in the 17-day-old strike against the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

The council last night ordered its affiliated locals to assist federation members in picketing local Ohio Bell properties.

Council President Richard Lazette said first of the pickets from its locals would join the lines blockading Ohio Bell tomorrow. Some 70,000 CIO members are affiliated with the lieup.

Minor clashes between pickets and non-striking Ohio Bell employes were reported here and at Columbus.

Policeman Egged

One intervening Toledo policeman was spattered Monday with an egg tossed by a picket, police reported.

At Columbus, Miss Joyce Beckman, 18, and Miss Leona Narra, 20, were charged with fighting when arrested during one scuffle. Miss Narra, a non-striking employe, said she was jostled against a building when she attempted to go home after work. Both were released under $10 bond.

In another scuffle outside the Ohio Belle exchange caused minor injury to a 19-year-old girl operator and arrest of four strikers and a company executive. The disorder was occasioned by arrival at the exchange of a truck load of bedding, cots, food and ice for a number of company workers who are living in the exchange building while they continue working.

Miss Patricia McNeal, 19, an operator, received bruises of her face and hand when she was knocked to the street by a man with a suitcase who entered the building.

Several Men Booked

Booked on charges growing out of the demonstration and released on bond, police headquarters reported, were Rufus Short, 47, an assistant district traffic manager, and these strikers: Patricia LeFever, 20, Charles Saffell, 25, Victor Weaver, 41, and Robert Conrad Jr., 25. Short and Saffell were charged with fighting; Miss Lefever with interfering with an officer and Weaver and Conrad with disorderly conduct.

At Cleveland trouble of undetermined origin in a specially adapted Ohio Bell cable connecting radio station WTAM with its Breaksville transmitter yesterday necessitated the use of emergency equipment by the station for rebroadcast of its local and national network programs through the transmitter.

Ohio Bell posted a reward of $1,000 for information leading to arrest and conviction of anyone who maliciously damages the company's cables or equipment.

Company sources repeated earlier statements that they believed the acts of vandalism were being committed by hoodlums and not connected with the strike of approximately 15,000 phone workers.

Better Diet Seen If Less Spent for Luxury

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23 — A farm organization leader suggested today that Americans could afford better diets—thus providing larger markets for the farmer—if they spent less for whisky, sports, amusements and luxuries.

John H. Davis, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, told the house agriculture committee he thinks too much emphasis is placed on the idea that the size of family incomes largely determines the amount spent on food. He added:

"When one sees the total sums spent annually in America for items less vital to health than food, such as amusements, sports, tobacco, liquors and luxuries of various types, one wonders if family income is really the limiting factor on food purchase that it is commonly assumed to be."

The committee is considering farm legislation.

Truman Plans Visit To Canada June 10

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—The White House said today that President Truman is planning a visit to Canada—perhaps about June 10.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen a trip to Canada and a visit to Princeton university June 15 to receive a degree constituted the President's only definite travel plans at this time.

As to whether a summer visit to Alaska is tentatively on the President's schedule, Ross asserted:

"He has made no plans beyond the Canadian trip. All reports on the subject are extremely tenuous and highly speculative."

Springfield Teachers Voted Raise—with "Ifs"

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., April 23—Springfield's 400 teachers — all are going to get fatter pay checks—maybe.

The board of education last night voted 4 to 1 to establish $2,000 minimums and $3,500 maximums for teachers, with principals receiving varying sums above maximums.

The board set the September school term as the effective date of the salary hikes—and then announced the "ifs."

Said board spokesmen:

The salary schedules would become effective "only" if the Daniels-Cramer school aid bill passes the Ohio legislature and if Springfield voters approve a special real estate tax levy next November.

Including principals' salaries, the present average of teachers' salaries here is approximately $2,100. However many teachers now earn less than $2,000 annually.

Soaring Canned Goods Prices Seen in Offing

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—Food prices will stay up and canned foods may soar higher within the next few months.

Such was the prediction coming from the 41st annual two-day convention of the Associated Wholesale Food Distributors of Ohio today.

Reductions in uncanned foods would be slight at best, said R. R. McGowan, of Steubenville, who was reelected president. Unless something unforeseen develops canned fruits and vegetables are to cost more Luke F. Beckman of St. Henry, Ohio Canners' association president, forecast.

Officers named yesterday besides McGowan were R. C. Walter of Mansfield, vice President; and Trustees R. B. Willsee of Portsmouth, R. C. Axline of Newark and A. B. Vierebome of Lancaster.

B. and O. Signs Pact With Rail Brotherhood

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, April 23—Two brotherhoods of railroad workers had a new contract today with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad paying time and a half overtime for engineers, enginemen and firemen on passenger trains.

Union officials said it was the first time any company had applied the overtime rate to passenger train service, although freight and yard workers have been paid time and a half since 1918.

The pact is effective June 1, for one year.

The contract, which continued the same basic wage rate set in May, 1946, provides payment for initial and terminal delay; compensation for time spent away from the employe's home terminal; and a guaranteed daily minimum for enginemen and firemen in yard service.

Lady's Arm Was Beat Up Double Like A Jack-Knife

One lady recently stated that her arm used to become doubled up like a jack-knife. She couldn't move her arm up or down because her muscles were stiff with rheumatic pains and the joints were swollen. She said she was ashamed to leave her house because people would stare at her. Finally she got RHU-AID and says she now can raise her arm above her head and the swelling left her elbow and shoulder. The awful pain and stiffness is gone. She is enjoying life once more and feels like "some other woman" since taking this New Compound.

Rev. A. M. Hood Speaks At Pension Meeting

Rev. Albert M. Hood, pastor of the Second Pilgrim Holiness church was a guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Old Age Pension society of Marion County Friday afternoon in the Eagles' hall. Rease Jenkins, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Arthur Hershner, who was ill. The group sang "America" after which the opening prayer was by Mrs. Elizabeth Howser. Devotions and patriotic exercises opened the meeting.

Rev. Hood based his talk on Samuel 15:22, and told his audience that people, instead of being dependent on man's word, should follow the word of God, anchor their faith in God and obey. Unless you really know Jesus, he continued, you haven't anything in your life.

Music included "Near the Cross" and "Dwelling in Beulah Land," by the choir. Christian Ruth and William E. Sergent sang a selected number and Rev. Hood sang "Alone With Jesus," playing his own accompaniment on the accordion, and "His Face is in the Storm." The closing prayer was by Rev. Hood.

Senate Weighs Domestic Issue

Tackles Labor Bill with Taft, Others Trying To Restore "Teeth."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—The senate plunged into domestic problems today with Senator Taft (R-Ohio), opening debate on a labor disputes bill which even foes concede may be toughened before its expected final approval.

In the role of a not-quite-satisfied sponsor, Taft as chairman of the senate labor committee arranged to bring before his colleagues a G.O.P. answer to strikes and labor strife.

Taft insisted, in talking with reporters before the senate met, that the committee-approved labor measure contains no "punitive" action despite its proposed curbs on unions and strikes.

Objectionable To Labor

Considerably less far reaching than the house bill which won overwhelming approval last week, the senate version nevertheless also is objectionable to organized labor.

The AFL executive council late yesterday announced plans for a $1,500,000 advertising campaign to fight both measures. The council termed them an effort "to destroy the power of trade unions."

Taft said he will resist any modifying changes in the senate bill but wants the following admitted:

1. A flat ban on jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts, as provided in the house bill.

The most common type of jurisdictional strike results from a dispute between unions as to which should do certain work. A secondary boycott is the refusal by one union to handle products of another.

No Union Health Funds

2. The outlawing of union-administered health and welfare funds.

3. A provision forbidding national unions to dictate contract terms to their locals.

4. Making it an unfair labor practice for unions to coerce or interfere with workers in the exercise of their collective bargaining rights.

All of these provisions were knocked out of the bill approved by the senate labor committee.

ECUADOR PROGRAM REBROADCAST HERE

Dr. Hershey and Rev. Lewis Heard Over WMRN.

A radio broadcast by Dr. C. E. Hershey and Rev. Marvin Lewis from station HCJB at Quito, Ecuador, last night was picked up direct from there and instantaneous rebroadcast made by station WMRN. Those who heard it over WMRN or on their own short wave receiving sets reported reception clear with little atmospheric interference.

The program was similar to that of the night before, with messages and music by both Dr. Hershey and Rev. Lewis. Dr. Hershey was requested to present again his own composition, "I'm in Love With Jesus," and he told how it was written during a trip to Alaska where he established Youth for Christ in June, 1945. Copies of the song were offered listeners by the radio station.

Following the half hour rebroadcast by WMRN, the program at Quito continued another 7 minutes, and Dr. Hershey accompanied with his accordion music of an old fashioned organ for the station's Old Fashioned Hymn hour.

Recordings of the entire broadcast were made on Dr. Hershey's own recording equipment by George Schwab of 1290 East Church street. Station WMRN made a recording of the first half hour of the rebroadcast which will be used in a Youth for Christ program here Saturday night.

Dr. Hershey is director of the Marion Youth for Christ and Rev. Lewis are making a tour of Latin American countries for Youth for Christ International.

Senators Ball (R-Minn), Donnell (R.-Mo), and Jenner (R-Ind), also members of the committee joined Taft in his drive to restore these points.

Work on New Drive-In Theater Scheduled To Start Next Week

Preparation of Site To Get Under Way North of Marion; Opening Set for June.

Grading work will begin next week in preparation for construction of a $75,000, 600-car drive-in theater north of the city, according to Horace E. Shock of Lima, president of Summit Drive-in Theaters, Inc.

The grading contract has been let to Plumley Excavating Contractors of Marion. Work on the concrete and wooden buildings which will comprise the open-air theater will start in about two weeks and will be supervised by a Lima contracting firm, using local labor.

The theater will be located about 200 feet east of route 23, about two miles north of Marion and just south of Forest Glen Memorial park. A 150-acre tract of land for the project was purchased recently from Marshall McKinstry.

Expect Opening in June

The theater will open in June, according to present plans. Single features will be shown, with shorts and newsreels.

It will cater to mbtorists, with room for 600 cars. Speakers, which may be taken into each car, will be provided, and volume may be adjusted individually.

Approximately 30 local people will be employed in the building of the theater and 15 will be hired by the finished establishment. A Marion veteran will be manager.

30-Week Season

The season will run about 30 weeks, starting each year in April and ending in November.

Mr. Shock said materials will be purchased locally and are of such a nature as not to interfere with veterans' housing. CPA approval is expected in the near future, he said.

The screen will measure 30 by 40 feet.

Mr. Shock is owner of two drive-in theaters in Lima and is president of the newly-organized Drive-in Theaters, Inc. The theater here is the first to be built by the corporation. The building of others in Ohio and Indiana is planned.

OHIO HOUSE WEIGHS LABOR

Hears Business Delegates Tell Why Unions Should Be Curbed.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—The state industrial relations committee heard today why business representatives believe legislation curbing labor unions should be passed by the general assembly.

Witnesses were summoned to testify in support of measures to ban the closed shop, outlaw strikes not sanctioned by a majority of workers, restricting picketing and otherwise restrain organized labor activities.

State AFL and CIO leaders also were present to oppose what they termed "anti-labor" legislation, but committee Chairman Clifton Cheryl (R-Union) indicated they would not be heard until next week.

Unlawful To Solicit Funds

The omnibus labor-control bill also would make it unlawful for unions to solicit funds or make financial contributions to any political party or candidate for public office and would require unions to file annual reports with the state director of industrial relations and union members showing receipts and expenditures and salaries of officers.

Other bills would ban the "check-off" system of collecting union dues except by written permission of workers.

The senate yesterday passed 27 to 2 a bill exempting bars from the ban against sale of intoxicants within two miles of state and county fairs and within 1,200 yards of orphanages and certain state institutions.

The measure was amended on the senate floor to require the state liquor director to conduct hearings on applications for new liquor spots within 500 feet of schools, churches, libraries or playgrounds.

Vote Against Proposal

Voting against the proposal, which now goes to the house, were Sens. George G. Shurtz (R-Coshocton) and John W. Morrison (R-Portage).

Also passed by the senate were bills to set qualifications for fire and casualty insurance agents, to increase the pay of porbate judges, who also serve as juvenile judges.

The first in a series of measures designed to provide more money for local governments also was approved by the house. It would give local governments the state's share of cigaret license fees which last year aggregated $500,000.

Rep. Clarence M. Krueger (R-Erie) introduced a resolution asking the legislature to request U. S. senate disapproval on ratification of a treaty with Canada for control of Great Lakes fisheries by an international commission.

Accountant Held In Assault on Priest

NEW ORLEANS, April 23—A 48-year-old accountant is being held for investigation here today after he attempted, police said, to force his way into the room of Father James W. Courtney at Mercy hospital late last night.

Father Courtney was stabbed in the throat, neck and back at high mass Sunday as he administered holy communion at the altar of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. His life was reported threatened by three men at the hospital Monday night.

Detective Alfred Reyer arrested a man he identified as Michael Hammill, a Springfield, Mass., accountant who, Reyer said, came here four months ago to follow the races.

The man told a rambling story of making a private investigation of the stabbing of Father Courtney, and said a "Communistic plot" was behind the attack on the priest, Reyer related.

KENTON MAN SENTENCED

Ministers Meet Marion Woman in Panama

Mrs. H. H Tuttle of 193 South Vine street, mother of Miss Pearl Tuttle, Marion woman who is in missionary work in Panama, received a letter this week from Rev. Marvin Lewis who was in Panama recently, mentioning her daughter. Miss Tuttle, with Miss Avery Kindle, is stationed at Boquete, one of the places Rev. Lewis and Dr. C. E. Hershey stopped on their tour of Central and South American countries in the interest of Youth for Christ International. The letter was written Friday by Rev. Lewis, saying he and Dr. Hershey had arrived in Boquete Wednesday, and was received by Mrs. Tuttle Thursday. He wrote that Miss Tuttle "is looking fine," and he reported the weather in Boquete "very cool."

He and Dr. Hershey, director of Marion Youth for Christ, left Panama Saturday for Quito, Ecuador, South America, to be there the first part of this week, then planned to go to Caracas, Venezuela. Two other stops scheduled on their tour are Port-au-Prince, Haiti, and Havana, Cuba, before Dr. Hershey returns to this country and Rev. Lewis goes on to Jamaica.

CLEVELAND WOMEN SOUGHT IN KILLING

By The Associated Press

PAINESVILLE, O., April 23—Authorities searched today for two Cleveland women, who had corresponded with Anton Heinemann, in an attempt to uncover clues to the slaying of the 65-year-old farmer in his rural home.

Found in the water-filled basement of his ransacked home yesterday, Heinemann's throat was slashed and nine wounds about the head indicated he also had been shot, Lake County Prosecutor Lester W. Donaldson reported.

Robbery was the obvious motive for the murder, said Donaldson, adding that deputies also were searching for a china teapot, reported missing from the recluse's home, which they believed contained a considerable sum of money.

The victim, twice a widower, lived alone but had corresponded with several women, the prosecutor said. Letters from the Cleveland women and a woman in Detroit were found in the farmer's home.

A bloodstained hammer, one of the apparent murder weapons, was found.

Music of Houston, Symphony of Hammers

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON, Tex., April 23—There is an old vaudeville gag that the average man wants to go to heaven when he dies, but a Texan would prefer to ascend to Dallas.

However, a lot of live Texans now—as well as thousands of outlanders—seem to want to go to Houston. It's one of the boom capitals and fastest growing large cities in America.

Hal Boyle

It is expanding like a balloon tied to the mouth of a circus barker. The supermarkets here are so large a customer can wear out his shoes walking from the aspirin counter to the pork chop cases. One huge grocery store with enough neon lights to illuminate a world movie premiere operates on a 24-hour basis. If the baby cries at 3 a. m. you can wheel him down and buy him a fresh pint of milk.

A visitor gets the impression that if a man's cigaret lighter runs dry, he just buys another oil well to refill it. You have to stand in line to get a building permit for anything smaller than a skyscraper. The music of Houston is a symphony of hammers.

Typical of the boom mind here is enterprising J. C. Smith Jr., who operates a taxicab which he says is "the only one in Texas equipped with one of the new telephones—certainly the only one in Houston."

Smith's initials stand for 'John Clark,' but "everybody calls me J. C. now except my mother—she still calls me 'Junior'."

He came to Houston two years ago with $100 in his pockets. He hacked for others until he saved up enough to buy his own car. He named it "The Courteous Cab" but may change it soon to "The Glad Hand Cab."

Smith's taxi is equipped with all kinds of electrical gadgets including a radio with a front and rear loud speaker and a front seat dome light installed to permit him to read when business is slow.

Smith calls everyone in town by his first name, genially adopts passengers new to Houston and steers them to the right restaurants. He has saved up enough to order two new seven-passenger cabs. He has a one-sentence philosophy:

"There's a lot of money to be made around here, and I'm out to get my share."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

ANALYZING THE NEWS

Editor of The Star: If we listen closely to the news broadcasts we find that the only real facts which are broadcast several times a day are news of disasters, either manmade or elemental, and the former are slanted anti-labor if at all possible. Even the recent mine disasters are now blamed on the workers and John L. Lewis, whereas we know that they have no power to correct the conditions since they do not own the mines. Safety devices cost money, which eats into the profits of the companies. Mine inspectors do their jobs well and conscientiously, but they cannot make the mine owners carry out their recommendations. Miners work the mines because that is the way they make their living. Safety codes in all industries need to be brought up to date and be enforced.

Kaltenborn is doing business at the same old anti-labor stand. New contracts between unions and business interests are coming up calling for wage increases to meet the higher living costs. He is ranting against wage increases because "it means price increases and inflation." Let us examine that argumet. OPA figures for September 1946, as published by Labor Research association in its February 1947 Economic Notes, show the following: In the agriculture and implement industry a 2.2 per cent price increase was enough to offset any wage increase granted; but were they content with that? They increased the prices 11.4 per cent. Anthracite coal went up 11.5 per cent instead of 11.1 per cent (not so bad); bituminous coal 10.7 per cent instead of 9 per cent; brick and tile raised 15.4 per cent instead of 7.9 per cent, nearly double; cement took 7.1 per cent instead of 2.2 per cent, more than triple; chemicals and allied products rose 3.3 per cent instead of only 1.1 per cent, exactly three times. Food was one of the worst offenders raising the prices 24 per cent in place of 1.3 per cent, more than 18 times the offsetting increase. Furniture went up 5.9 per cent instead of 3.3 per cent; hides and leather which make the shoes, etc., took a hike of 20.1 per cent to the 3 per cent needed; iron and steel rose 4.3 per cent whereas only 2.3 per cent was necessary; lumber for your homes went up 15 per cent to 3.9 per cent for offsetting wage increases; paper and pulp soaked up 11.8 per cent instead of 2.9 per cent; petroleum products climbed 13.7 per cent, 19¼ times the necessary .7 per cent rise; and textiles took a hike of 26.2 per cent to 4.5 necessary.

These industries cover practically everything that the common man needs to live. In the face of these glaring figures who has the gall to blame wage raises for increased prices? The smaller percentage wiped out any gains labor made, and the larger percentage wiped out the savings the workers and the rest of the toiling people had. And who is getting the gains? Who is fleecing the "dear public" our news commentators and columnists are so solicitous of?

President Truman uses soft pleading words, hoping to touch the hearts of monopoly, but monopoly has no heart. Did not Robert Owen in England, away back in 1848 try persuasion, even a concrete example? But did they heed? No! Profits are the motive power of our system of free enterprise. Those who control are absolutely ruthless and dictators of the worst order. Remember Hitler Germany! Hence, 99 per cent of the news always gives one side of the picture, and that is the side of big business. It is anti-labor and anti-people. And anything goes! The anti-Communist and anti-Soviet hysteria is part and parcel of this defense of big business. It leads straight to Fascism! But I am satisfied that if the American people are given the facts, they will know how to act and Fascism will not come to power here.

PLAN TO BEAUTIFY ENTRANCE TO GALION

Special to The Star

GALION, April 23—Beautification of the east entrance of the city, particularly along East street between the Charles and East Church street intersections is now underway. This is one of the projects suggested by Paul Nollen for the Galion Kiwanis club to sponsor when he first became president.

A report of initial steps which have been taken in the project was given by Robert Corry and Robert Moulton, co-chairmen, at the luncheon-meeting of the club Tuesday noon at Hotel Talbott.

Shrubbery and flowers will be planted along East street, and flower boxes will be placed on the bridge which separates the two reservoirs that lie on either side of the street. Cooperation of garden clubs, civic organizations and clubs will be sought by the Kiwanis club in promoting plans for beautification of this section of the city, Mr. Nollen said today.

The program Tuesday noon was presented by F. A. W. Liddell, school music supervisor. He introduced Edward Riedesel who sang two numbers and Maurice Martin who played two cornet selections. Theodora Rehl was piano accompanist for the soloists.

Edgar Beall, who returned recently from a trip through the southwestern United States, the Yucatan and other points gave a short talk about his travels.

The club also set April 29 for the Ladies' Night meeting at Hotel Talbott.

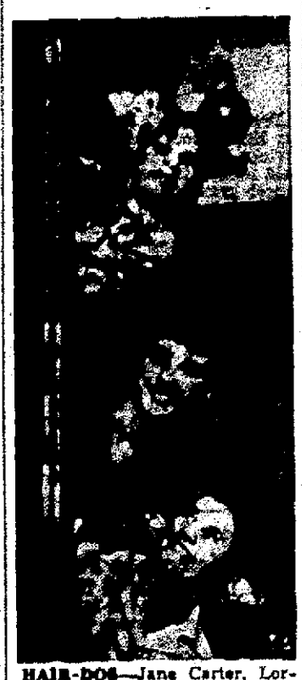
Attempted Holdup Reported Near Kenton

Special to The Star

KENTON, April 23—George H. Clark, of Louisiana, reported to Hardin county officials that two men attempted to hold him up Monday on Route 31, five miles south of Kenton.

Clark said the two men stopped him, pulled a gun and told him to hand over what he had. Clark drove away leaving the two standing, and said they followed in another car, shouting that they would get him.

After following him for a mile they turned off the main highway and Clark called in the incident from a nearby farm house. Both were said by Clark to be wearing navy fatigue outfits and about 30 years old.



HAIR-DOS—Jane Carter, Lorraine Rochnowski and Marlene Zawacki (top to bottom) devised these coiffures in a contest in their Chicago school.

OHIO CIVIC LEADERS SCORE UTILITY TAX

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23 — A majority of Ohio civic leaders were on record today against giving cities the power to levy consumer utility taxes as means of rehabilitating their treasuries.

They indicated this yesterday in rejecting a proposal that the Local Government Association of Ohio, formed to obtain financial relief for cities and towns, should ask the Ohio general assembly to legislate the taxing authority to municipalities.

Instead the association approved motions favoring appropriations of $28,000,000 in local government funds, to be realized by sharing in Ohio's sales tax receipts, and another $4,130,000 appropriation for highway funds.

Mayor James A. Rhodes, of Columbus, and City Manager William Lucas, of Springfield, fought for the consumer utility levy. Rhodes, who sponsored the proposal, declared that some committee members sought to leave "10 or 12 cities hanging high and dry" by voting the motion down.

Lucas said that a sales tax appropriation of "24, 34, or 44-million dollars" would not help Springfield which he said would need $500,000 after July 1 to collect its garbage and retain its police and fire departments.

Rhodes, Lucas and Youngstown committee members had urged asking the legislature for $24,000,000 in local government funds and the authority to impose the consumer utility tax.

What Can the Matter Be?" G. A. Grant-Schaefer; "The Star," J. H. Rogers; and "All the Things You Are," Jerome Kern.

Last part of the band program will include "Yare Overture," "Havana," and "Little Rastus," all by H. Bennett; and "Washington Post March," J. P. Sousa.

JUDGE WANNAMAKER

ROTARY HEARS JUDGE IN TALK ON RUSSIA

Akron Jurist Addresses Marion Luncheon Club.

Judge Walter B. Wannamaker of Akron spoke on "Russia" in the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding Tuesday.

Mr. Wannamaker, a judge in the Summit county common pleas court, voiced the belief that our present Russian menace, communism, starts at school where we are taught a propagandized theory of its meaning.

Although there is only one Communist to every 1,800 Americans in this country, "What they lack in numbers, they make up in activity," Judge Wannamaker said.

Recalling Abraham Lincoln's statement that a government is only as good as the people make it, Mr. Wannamaker urged that all Americans participate more actively in affairs of government in order to make known how they want to be represented.

Howard F. Guthery, Marion attorney, who is president of the Ohio Bar association, introduced the speaker.

Guests were J. Bratton Bole of McKeesport, Pa.; C. D. Hartzler of Canal Winchester, O.; Jack Watkins and Tom Lewis of Cincinnati; and from Marion, Judge Paul D. Smith of the common pleas court, Charles D. Harmon, M. V. Cornell, George Stafford and Dr. H. K. Mouser.

Jean Brown was student reporter from the Harding High school journalism classes.

Second Annual Baseball Banquet Scheduled for Tomorrow Night

Final Arrangements Made For Dinner Honoring 1947 Outfit

By GEORGE KOEST

Final arrangements for the second annual baseball banquet, which is sponsored by the Inter-club council, have been made, officials said today. It will be held in the ballroom at Hotel Harding tomorrow night.

The banquet is given in honor of the players, managers, and sponsors of the Marion Cubs baseball team. Its purpose is to wish them luck and to assure them the city will be behind them during the coming baseball season.

The Cubs open in the Ohio State league at Lima Sunday.

An impressive list of out-of-town guests will be present to help put the banquet over.

Trautman on Program

It will be headed by George Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. Last year he was also the speaker at the banquet. He was then vice president of the Detroit Tigers. He has since been elevated to his present position and is probably second in baseball prominence only to Commissioner "Happy" Chandler.

An invitation to Trautman to speak again this year was signed by 18 officers and directors of the ball club and by 14 others including Mayor Harry L. Dowler, Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt, and Sheriff LeRoy Retterer.

In accepting the invitation Trautman wrote that it was undoubtedly the most unusual he had ever received and that if no one but the persons who signed the invitation showed up there would be a good crowd.

Assured of Larger Crowd

He is assured of a much larger crowd, however, as the banquet was a sell-out soon after tickets were put on sale.

Another celebrity expected is Denton True "Cy" Young. One of the games immortal pitchers, Young recently received national attention as a "Cy Young Day" was held in his home town to honor him on his eightieth birthday.

Other out-of-towners who will be present are Darby Whalen, one time owner of the Lockport baseball team which was in the New York Pony league; "Turk" Reilley, former Marion baseball player, and Ben Kerner, of Kerner and Ferris advertising agency of Buffalo.

These men and others will be interviewed at the affair over WMRN between 6:30 and 6:45.

Harvey T. Gracely, president of the Marion Power Shovel Co., will be master of ceremonies. Mayor Dowler will give the welcoming speech and the response will be given by Judge W. Dexter Hazen, president of the Marion baseball club. Trautman's speech will follow.

Dedication sentiment composed by the late Alfred N. Donithen, Marion attorney and baseball fan, for last year's banquet will again provide the theme this year:

"This program is dedicated to the Marion Cubs Ball Club, of whose record we are justly proud. The great game of baseball does much for our youth in building character and does much for adults in providing excellent recreation.

"As devoted followers of the game and of the team, those present on this occasion desire to give encouragement to the players and to the sponsors of this great pastime, and to wish them the best of luck during the coming season."

The Inter-Club council which sponsors the banquet is made up of representatives from Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Y's Men, Exchange, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Exhibition Tilts Set

The Cubs will play an exhibition game at Newark tonight. Friday, Newark will be entertained here. Although weather and a wet field hampered yesterday the Cubs were able to run through a restricted practice session.

SOFTBALL PRACTICE SET

The First Evangelical United Brethren softball team plans to hold its first practice tomorrow at Central junior high school at 6 p. m. Any person interested in trying for a position with the team is asked to be on hand.

Harding Downs Caledonia 8-4, For Third Win

Harding's baseball club took it's third straight victory at Harding field, yesterday downing Caledonia 8 to 4.

It was the third start of the spring for the Presidents. They have doubled the score of each opponent they have met. Caledania was making its first start.

A game with Galion which was postponed from Monday will be played there Friday. Two home games are on the books next week. Mansfield is scheduled Monday and a return match with Ashland is scheduled Friday.

Mound chores yesterday were shared by Jim Ainey and Ed Roseberry for Harding and Paul Drake, Carl Belt and Gene Fleming for Caledonia. Ainey was credited with the win and Drake was charged with the loss.

Harding batters gleaned 10 hits, four of them by Bob Ralston who homered in the sixth to bring Dick Huddle, who had just tripled, in. Donia's efforts at the plate netted them eight hits.

Minors from Texas to Zanesville to Honor Ruth

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 23—Minor league baseball—from Abilene, Tex., to Zanesville, O.—joins the majors Sunday in doffing its cap to George Herman (Babe) Ruth in a day set aside by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for the national pastime to honor one of its greatest stars.

Although Ruth collected only one of the 715 home runs of his fabled career in a minor league park, each of the 52 circuits in the National Association of Professional Leagues (the minors) will have all-league programs honoring the Sultan of Swat, George M. Trautman, NAPL president, said today.

The Babe's lone minor league homer came when he was pitching for the Baltimore Orioles in 1914—at a salary of $100 monthly.

Trautman said that while Ruth attended Yankee Stadium ceremonies at New York, many minor league parks would rebroadcast the Gotham ceremonies over their public address systems.

Two leagues, the Ohio State and Canadian-American, will launch their 1947 pennant races on the Babe's "day."

Few Who Will Fete Ruth Ever Saw Him Play

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
AP Sports Writer

Of the millions of baseball fans who will pay tribute to the greatest home run hitter of all time on Babe Ruth day, April 27, probably 99 per cent never saw Babe Ruth play baseball.

To most of those fans, the Babe's record and much of his personal history is a familiar story. But it won't be just the Babe Ruth who hit 60 home runs in one season, or the younger Babe Ruth who was a great pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, or the harum-scarum Babe who learned the hard way how to take wealth and adulation, or the older golf-playing Babe, swathed in the inevitable tan coat and cap and greeting everyone with a joyous "hi ya, kid," to whom they'll be paying tribute that day.

Gave Money's Worth

The Babe Ruth they'll be remembering will be the big-bodied, confident fellow who used to mince out of the dugout at Yankee Stadium on legs that seemed too slender to support his weight. There always was a feeling of suspense when the Babe stepped up to the plate, swinging his bat menacingly as if daring the pitcher to throw the ball where he could belt it out of the park. And whether the Babe hoisted one in a high arc into Ruthville—the right field bleacher section at Yankee Stadium—or whether he merely struck out magnificently, you could see the strength and power in every move. The fans always got their money's worth.

Even as a youngster who won three World Series games as a pitcher and never lost one, Ruth was a guy who liked to hit. When Ed Barrow first tried to convert him into an outfielder, the Babe offered to play there on days when he wasn't pitching just so he could be in action every day. And when his playing days were almost over, when those thin legs no longer could carry him around with enough speed in the outfield, the Babe still had the batting eye and the shoulder muscles to clout home runs. He drove out six in 28 games in his final abortive 1935 season as "assistant manager" of the Boston Braves.

Few fans will remember Ruth as a pitcher, though he won the longest game in World Series history, 14 innings against Brooklyn in 1916, pitched 29 consecutive scoreless innings in Series competition and compiled an amazing 1.75 earned run average for 44 games of the 1916 season. It wasn't until he starting breaking home run records in 1919 by clouting 29 for the Red Sox and when he was sold to the Yankees for $125,000 that the Babe really caught the public fancy.

He hit 54 in the 1920 season and 59 in 1921, when the Yanks still played in the Polo Grounds. Then after some really bad seasons and a few that were bad only by comparison, he hit the all time high of 60 in 1927.

In those days, everything the Babe did was news and the Babe had the habit of doing things that made news. He signed a three year contract for $52,000 a season—the highest pay a ball player ever received until he himself hoisted the figure to $70,000 and then to $80,000. His salary arguments with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, had the fans holding their breath for days until surrounded by reporters and photographers in the springlike setting of the St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp, they would come to an agreement.

The Babe's injuries and ailments were news, too, and so were his escapades. A rough and ready guy who came out of an orphans' home—the Babe used to insist it was a reform school—into the not-too-cultivated atmosphere of baseball, Ruth found self restraint a hard thing to learn. If he felt like driving his car fast, he did it, speed cops to the contrary; If he felt like speaking his mind, he did that, too, regardless of brushes with Owner Ruppert, Manager Miller Huggins or Commissioner Landis. If he felt like eating a half dozen hot dogs before a game, he did that until "the stomachache heard round the world" convinced him there was something to watching his diet. And if he felt like whooping it up, he did, until one day when Jimmy Walker got him aside and gave him his famous talk about "the dirty faced kid in the street" who idolized a big guy named Babe Ruth. The Babe always was a sucker for kids.

Suspended 40 Days

After he walloping 59 homers in 1921, Ruth defied Commissioner Landis' edict against barnstorming and although he quickly repented and called the tour off, he was suspended for the first 40 days of the 1922 season. It was in 1922, the last year before Yankee Stadium, "the house that Ruth built" was opened, that the Babe drew a fine and was relieved of his field captaincy for an outburst on the field and that his home run production dropped to the low of 35.

His worst season, however, was 1925, when that famous stomachache struck him on the way north from spring training. He collapsed in the railroad car on his arrival from New York and was carted off to the hospital with what doctors called "flu and indigestion." He didn't play until June and less than two months later, Huggins, the mighty mite, slapped the big fellow down with a $5,000 fine and a suspension for "misconduct off the field."

The Babe raved, the public wondered and the reporters ran around in circles collecting statements, but in the end Col. Ruppert upheld Huggins despite Ruth's threat that he's quit baseball if Huggins was retained as manager.

Last Big Outburst

That was the last big Ruthian outburst. Before the next season Ruth, with Jimmy Walker's support, decided to mend his ways and how he mended them was reflected by his 60 homes in 1927 and his increasing salary, which reached the $80,000 mark in 1930.

There's another side of Babe Ruth that many fans will remember—the Ruth who wasn't offered a big league managerial job when he no longer could play and who was too proud to start over again in the minors. Perhaps baseball men who recall Ruth's rough and ready relations with his teammates, his impatience with athletes of lesser ability, understand why he was asked to prove himself as a manager, but not the fans who turned his charity golf match with Ty Cobb into a mob scene three years after his retirement nor the thousands who sent him messages when he was seriously ill this winter.

They'll just remember the greatest—Babe Ruth.

TRACK TEAMS MEET AT PROSPECT TODAY

Three county track teams are scheduled for a meet at Prospect today.

Pleasant, county track champ last year, will be making its second start as will Martel. Trackmen from Morral will get their first taste of competition today.

The Pleasant outfit has run against only one Marion county school this season, Prospect. They outscored them 39 to 16 1/3.

Martel has run against Caledonia and Waldo, being outpointed by both schools. As Prospect outpointed Waldo in the season's first meet it appears the Townshippers should be able to do the same.

Morral expects to be strongest in the high jump and discus events Don Sexton, their high jumper, has been beating the five-footmark in practices and Jim Conley is said to be capable of long discus tosses.

EDDIE MILLER ADDS TO HOME RUN SCORE

Gets Fifth as Wrigley Field Joins List of Parks.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 23—Cincinnati shortstop Eddie Miller today added Wrigley field to his growing list of National league ball yards whose fences he has cleared in the fledgling season's most sensational home run clouting spree.

He hit homer No. 5 and drove in the winning run with a single here yesterday as the Reds squeezed past the Chicago Cubs, 7-6, in 10 innings.

Miller now has seven hits (five homers and two singles) in 41 times at bat—average .171 for nine games.

Redlegs Bobby Adams and Ray Mueller contributed their second home runs of the campaign in the third and fourth innings, respectively. The Reds stretched their lead to 6-3 with a run in the fifth on singles by Frankie Baumholtz and Augie Galan and an error by Bill Lee, Cub pitcher.

Chicago shelled Joe Beggs out of the box with a four-hit, three-run uprising in the third. They gave Johnny Netki the same treatment in the eighth to tie the score at 6-all.

Harry Gumbert then took over Cincinnati mound duties and finished up to get credit for the win.

Bert Haas opened the Cincinnati 10th with a single off Paul Erickson. Mueller sacrificed and pinch hitter Eddie Lukon fanned. Then, Miller lined out a hot single to center to chase Haas home.

Bert Curtis, old time Marion ballplayer. Persons interested in umpiring city softball games this summer, players, and managers are asked to attend.

Feller Breaks Own Record In Hurling Ninth One-Hit Victory

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 23—Fresh from the ninth one-hitter of his brilliant career, Rapid Robert Feller of the Cleveland Indians served notice on American league sluggers today that he isn't "aiming for strikeouts—but it's still a good way to get batters out."

A lazy liner from Al Zarilla's bat dropped into center field in the seventh inning at Lakefront Stadium yesterday to rob the major league strikeout king of his third no-hitter as Feller mowed down the St. Louis Browns for a 5-0 victory.

Switching from his baffling assortment of curves to a hopping fast ball, Feller handcuffed the Browns the rest of the way to break his own record for one-hitters with a near-perfect performance in which only 29 St. Louis batters reached the plate. Joe Gordon's three-run homer gave Bob all the margin he needed.

One of the game's all-time hurling stars, Jerome (Dizzy) Dean wound up his radio sportscasting and muttered: "Bobby Feller was unbeatable out there today.

"That was the finest game I have ever seen pitched by a right hander," Diz elaborated. "That Feller ranks at the top of the pitching heap. There may be other flingers as good—but there are none better."

Another Feller rooter, Indians President Bill Veeck, shivered under the tropical suit in the 45-degree temperature and declared: "That was the finest game I have ever seen pitched—period."

Between dressing room rubdowns, the smiling Feller explained that Zarilla, stocky native of Los Angeles who batted only .259 last year, reached outside for a "change-of-pace curve, that would have been called a ball to slap his "spoiler" to center.

"I threw mostly curves today and they were breaking fine in the damp atmosphere — but from there on, I decided to blaze 'em in," said Rapid Robert, adding, "I struck out Zarilla in the first and fourth with fast balls, but he's always a dangerous hitter."

Expressing surprise when informed he had struck out 10, Feller asserted, "I didn't realize I had fanned that many. I wasn't aiming for strikeouts—but it's still a good way to get batters out."

Crediting the "atmosphere and my new electric heating packet" for his phenomenal control, Feller issued his only walk in 17 innings to Les Moss, leading off for St. Louis in the ninth.

Bums' Gregg Handcuffs Phils with One Hit

By The Associated Press

Brooklyn's Hal Gregg yesterday held the Philadelphia Phillies to a mere safety in shutting them out 1-0 at Ebbets Field. The veteran Emil (Dutch) Leonard matched him almost pitch for pitch until the last half of the eighth when Jackie Robinson, the Dodgers' Negro infielder, singled, stole second, continued to third of catcher Andy Seminick's wild throw to head him off, and scored the all-important run on a single by Gene Hermanski.

Although they could wrangle only three hits off the combined pitching of Joe Dobson, Earl Johnson and Harry Dorish, the New York Yankees made them count to the utmost by shading the Boston Red Sox 5-4. Charlie Keller, hit a three-run homer in the first inning and a run-producing single in the eighth.

Three of the Red Sox' nine hits off winning pitcher Floyd Bevens were four baggers by Ted Williams. Sam Mele and Rudy York to account for all Boston's runs.

Westinghouse Plant Ispected Following Dinner.

More than 200 representatives of Marion industries were guests of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. in Mansfield last night when they were served a banquet in the company's dining room and taken on a tour through the plant.

The trip was sponsored by the Marion Foremen's club. Dinner was served to the Marion visitors at 6:40 with food prepared by Bruno Loeckel, former chef to Kaiser Wilhelm. Talks were made by the following Westinghouse officials: C. L. VanDerau, works manager, H. W. Arlin, director of industrial relations and H. W. Dailey, safety director.

Also addressing the group were Sidney Smith and Calvin Leonard, both of Mansfield, safety advisors for the Ohio Industrial commission; H. H. Douthitt, president of the Marion Foreman's club and H. E. Webster, club secretary.

The Marion delegation was taken through the company's plant by 15 guides, who explained various phases of the manufacture of electrical appliances.

Next meeting of the Marion Foreman's club will be May 6 when the speaker will be Dr. Charles Copeland Smith of New York City, nationally known lecturer and a staff member of the National Association of Foremen.

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 23—Summer scheduling has brought three more NBC shows into line.

Jack Parr is to handle the Jack Benny program beginning June 1.

The Red Skelton time from June 10 for 13 weeks again will have the music of Sigmund Romberg.

Bob Hope, who in past summers had the Man Called X, now on CBS, is to call in another mystery, "Adventures of Philip Marlowe," for the summer period starting June 17.

Unjustly discharged, after 20 years of faithful service, a man passes up an opportunity for revenge against his employer in order to observe the command of the Master. ". . . whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," in the The Greatest Story Ever Told dramatization to be heard over ABC on Sunday, April 27, at 6:30 p. m.

Smilin' Ed McConnell, NBC song and patter man, and onetime WLW performer, on May 30 will add another milestone to a career unique in radio. It will be his 25th anniversary as a microphone artist and during that time he has never been without a sponsor. He has never done a sustaining show.

Fifty-eight-year-old McConnell, now starred in "Smilin' Ed McConnell and His Buster Brown Gang," did a fill-in broadcast before commercial radio was born over station WSB (Atlanta, Ga.) on May 30, 1922. He had walked into the studio as a sightseer just when the program manager was making a frantic effort to find someone to fill a vacant period.

All times given are Eastern Standard Time. Erroneous listings, if any, are caused by last-minute changes made by stations and networks.

Ohioan "Surprised" To Find Self Tabbed As Slain Woman

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, O., April 23—Reached by telephone here early today, Mrs. Flora Gracy, 38, said she was "so surprised when she got the news" that four persons had identified her as the middle-aged woman whose body was found stuffed in a trunk on a highway near Keyport, N. J.

Mrs. Gracy said that for about three years she had been living with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gracy, at nearby Fairview. Recently she has been working in a restaurant and rooming in Cambridge she said. Her husband, a master sergeant in the army, recently was ordered to Japan, she said.

At Keyport, four persons, three of whom said they worked with Mrs. Gracy in restaurants near Fort Dix yesterday identified the nude body of a strangled, middle-aged woman found Saturday night stuffed in a trunk on a highway as that of Mrs. Gracy.

Mrs Gracy said she had worked in restaurants near Fort Dix when her husband was stationed there.

WALLACE ASKS TEN BILLIONS FOR RUSSIA

By The Associated Press

PARIS, April 23—Henry A. Wallace declared today that Soviet Russia should get ten to 17 billion dollars worth of goods and services under a 50 billion dollar world construction program.

In return, the former American vice president said in an interview the Soviet Union should be required to forego her heavy reparations demands on Germany and to become a member of the international bank.

"The world cannot afford to allow reparations claims to shift from devastated Russia to Germany the misery and deprivation that create in Europe a danger spot," said Wallace, who arrived in Paris yesterday.

Wallace's discussion of Russia's aid was an elaboration of an informal radio interview last night, in which he told French listeners that the United States, as center of the world's wealth, should finance most of the huge world reconstruction program through the United Nations.

"The reconstruction program should be administered on a priority basis by a UN commission," he said today. "Russia, as the greatest war sufferer, would of course require the most aid. Greece and other hard-hit countries would be given their share," he said today.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE was something in my father's voice as he spoke of Otto's "traitorous hands"—something implacable—which sent a little shiver down my spine. I was glad that Olga was not present to hear his reference to her eldest son, although I knew that Otto had been as one worse than dead to his mother for years.

"Of course," my father went on, "I shall wait for Olga's permission before starting on this quest. After all, much of this property belongs to her, as well as to Pietro and to Olina."

Grandiloquent Reply

"You should know, Charles," Philip Veritzen said, a little grandiloquently, "that Olga will give you carte blanche in everything you propose. And as for the property, aside from some personal jewels of hers and Olina's—things of which they were especially fond—she wants nothing of it. I have enough for her, for Noel, and for Olina, and she does not want the jewels, even if they could be salvaged, if they are needed by Pietro in his attempts to build up a stable government of the people in Transvania. She and I agree that the age of kings is over."

If I had been a mid-Victorian woman when "vapors" were the mark of a gentlewoman, I told myself, I certainly would have swooned at Philip's statement.

I knew, of course, that Olga wanted nothing more of kings or courts. She was in complete accord with the altruistic aims of her younger son, Pietro, who, if he were still alive, was trying to establish a stable democratic government in Transvania. Olga had told me that she hoped the people would choose Pietro as their president, but that if they did not, he would accept their dictum gracefully, and serve his country in any position, no matter how humble.

Beyond Belief

But that Philip should share her views, Philip, wose "bar sinister" connection with the royal family of Transvania always had been a source of twisted pride to him, Philip, who had just consciously, or unconsciously, spoken of Olina's fiance as "Georges of Trees," stressing the royal reference—this was almost beyond belief

If he were sincere, Olga deserved a laurel wreath, but I had no time to ponder the question, for my father fas speaking, and we all snapped to attention.

"A very laudable and wise decision," he said. "And now, Philip—I know you will understand—time presses, and I wish if possible to have all the information Olga can give me about those retainers in my hands within the next hour."

Rose Immediately

Philip Veritzen rose immediately, and the other men rose with him

"I will tell Olga what you wish as soon as I get back to the apartment," he said. "Will you please tell me again just what data you want?"

"The names and last known addresses of the people who know the secret. Have her put stars after their names. Then, after each name, ask her to give names and addresses of loyal men and women not in the secret, but who, if they knew the request came from her, would help to find the people sought.

"I would like her, also, to give me three notes signed with her name and her title Has she, by any chance, a ring with the royal seal on it?"

"Yes, she used to use it to seal her letters, but she put it away years ago"

"Ask her, for me, to use that seal on the notes she gives me. They should be very brief, simply assuring any of her loyal subjects that the bearer of the note is her representative, and can be trusted

Personal Possession

"Please assure Olga that the three notes will remain in my personal possession until I give them out myself to people who will destroy them if they cannot get them into the proper hands."

"She will not need that assurance, Charles," Olga's husband told him "She knows that. And now, there is one thing I must speak before I go. What am I to do with Noel? He has been temporarily calmed by the assurance that Mary will sleep tonight, but will it be possible to keep the truth from him in the morning?"
